1. The Stalin Works, located at Staraya Russa (57°59'N, 31°21'E), consist of four factories almost large enough to form a small industrial city. Tractors and parts for tanks are the main products. The Russian workers in the plants receive no money; they are given certificates to be exchanged for food and tobacco, after producing their daily quota.
2. Eight hundred Russians and 650 German PWs are employed at one Stalin Motor factory, located in the city, which manufactures 12 and 16-cylinder motors for automobiles and tanks.
